Camoin Associates and PolicyOne Research join to broaden economic services and depth of expertise for clients

When two respected companies join forces to benefit their clients, great things are bound to happen. Some clients of Camoin Associates of Saratoga Springs, NY and PolicyOne Research of Scarborough, ME have already experienced the benefit when these two companies collaborate. By formally merging, Camoin Associates and PolicyOne will leverage a broader range of services and greater depth of expertise on behalf of all clients.

Founded in 1999, Camoin Associates has assisted hundreds of private businesses, economic development organizations and local communities. The company has established a leadership position in economic and fiscal impact, commercial market analysis, strategic planning and grant writing services.

When announcing the merger, Rob Camoin, President of Camoin Associates, focused on the expanded services each company will now be able to bring to clients. "In addition to our core economic development strengths we will also be able to leverage the tech and energy-led economic development initiatives and evaluation expertise that are the cornerstones of PolicyOne's national strengths. This merger positions Camoin Associates to be a leader in economic development services throughout the U.S."

PolicyOne Research, established in 2002 by Jim Damicis, is seen as a leading resource on economic development in the technology and energy sectors. PolicyOne publishes numerous indicator reports for state, local and industry organizations throughout the northeast. They also specialize in evaluation of economic development programs. "Through working together on projects we have identified significant ways that our companies complement each other," cited Damicis. "This merger will allow us to combine PolicyOne's data analysis and research expertise with the customer driven focus of Camoin Associates to benefit our clients and expand our market."

Once combined, Camoin Associates will have 10 employees, with offices in Saratoga Springs, NY; Portland, ME; Vermont; and Austin, TX. Questions or comments are welcome and can be directed to either Rob Camoin or Jim Damicis.
